Roger that. I tell you, I kind of hope they do.

This is a fight I want.

Thank you, as always, for your support.

I recommend that you do. Eventually, they may get a lawyer involved and contact Linda or me.

Keeping you in the loop.

Should I keep ignoring them? I have no problem with that.

Kind of an FYI

These companies are the same. They are the pay us or we sue you people.

As instructed, I am not contacting them nor is the team.

I am ready to speak with them anytime with the full weight of our legal department behind me and tell them to take a leap on the settlement offers and say we accept DMCA notices as long as they are valid. They have been told this multiple times.

I volunteer this as they have my contact info and I have had fun playing this game and once they get yours, they will not give up as you can tell. ☺

On a side note, if they attack Cox or try to sue, it would be outstanding press for Cox to fight against this obvious blackmail towards our customers.
